RE: Mayor's Budget Proposal for FY 2007-08

Dear City Council Members:

I am honored to have an opportunity to present an analysis of the Mayor's Budget Proposal to this Honorable Body. As the City Ombudsman, I am authorized by the City Charter to document citizens' complaints and recommend that resources are directed to areas where the most problems are generated.

This report covers one full year of tracking complaints from March 1, 2006, through February 28, 2007. In FY 2006-07, there were 950 complaints received during a five-month reporting period, and today, I am submitting a report that includes 4,405 complaints of which the Departments of Environmental Affairs and the Water & Sewerage have the greatest number of complaints.

Flooded streets, vacant houses, and illegal dumping are glaring examples of the complaints received. Without administrative intervention, property values will continue to fall, trapping senior citizens and children in neighborhoods that are barely inhabitable.

This year, the Mayor's Budget Proposal allocates $5,743,775 for the demolition program representing a $1.5 million reduction from the current fiscal year. The Office of the Ombudsman has verified that 250 houses can be demolished for $2 million, making the program funding recommendation significantly inadequate to seriously impact neighborhood redevelopment efforts. (Sources of verification: Building Safety & Engineering and Wayne County Nuisance Abatement Program.) This loss of funding means that 187.5 vacant and dangerous buildings won't come down in FY 2007-08.

It is imperative that the City Council focus on neighborhood deterioration and commit to addressing the environmental meltdown that will continue to threaten present-day and future viability. Therefore, I recommend that the City Council restore the $1.5 million to the demolition program.

The Office of the Ombudsman submits the following recommendations:

Recommendation for Solid Waste Management

In June 2006, I recommended that the City Council and Mayor establish a Solid Waste Management Planning Committee to develop and implement a collection and disposal program. The goal is to develop a comprehensive plan that coordinates all aspects of solid waste management: collection, illegal dumping, and disposal. This recommendation is still applicable today, and it is the recommendation of this Office that City Council take the lead to address this issue and use the "Solid Waste Management Planning Committee Recommendation." (Recommendation is included.)

Recommendation for Vacant & Dangerous Buildings

Complaints received from exasperated residents, community groups, neighborhood associations, property owners, and businesses prompts this Office to recommend that the City Council direct its staff to research and investigate the "National Vacant Properties Campaign." This is a Washington, D.C.-based program with a mission to "create opportunity from abandonment."

"The National Vacant Properties Campaign exists to provide everyone – individuals, advocates, government agencies, developers, non-profits, and others – with information resources, tools, and assistance to support their vacant property revitalization efforts."

Program literature has been included in this report for your information and consideration.

This report includes a pie chart and photographs. In addition, individual complaints are listed by department. For specific complaint information, contact the Office of the Ombudsman and reference the case number.

Respectfully submitted,

Durene L. Brown

Recommendation for Solid Waste Management Planning

June 2006

CITY OF DETROIT

OMBUDSMAN

City of Detroit Office of the Ombudsman

DURENE L. BROWN, CITY OMBUDSMAN

"Getting Problems Out of the Way, So That Progress Can Occur"

Recommendation for Solid Waste Management Planning

The adoption of the FY 2006-2007 budget means that a new solid waste collection plan will be implemented for more than 200,000 households in the City of Detroit. Residents and commercial entities will be limited to Courville container service, and bulk pick-up will be restored quarterly. This plan is designed to save the City money and parallel collection service in the suburbs.

The problem with the plan is that collection service in the City won't be comparable to collection service outside the City. In Detroit, collection equipment will be solely dedicated to trash and garbage collection; whereas, in the suburbs, residents are required to separate waste so that three trucks collect trash, recyclables, and yard waste separately.

There is currently no state law that requires communities to recycle, and in Detroit, residents aren't encouraged to recycle because those items tend to "burn hot" at the Greater Detroit Resource Recovery Authority (GDRRA). The same materials that burn hot have been prohibited from landfill disposal since March 2004 when Public Acts 34 and 35 of 2004 were enacted. On the other hand, a curbside recycling program would cost the City additional money because the City would need to purchase new equipment and train drivers. GDRRA operates a recycling drop off center for a few hours on Wednesdays and Saturdays, but that is the extent of recycling services available to residents.

There is a state law that bans the landfilling of yard waste. At one time, when the City collected bulk monthly, residents could separate yard waste from trash and set the yard waste out with other bulk items to be collected separately. Now with a leaner bulk collection program, residents don't have a yard waste collection option. It is of no consequence at the moment because solid waste in Detroit goes to GDRRA, not a landfill.

However, if the City gets to the point where GDRRA is closed and landfilling is the only disposal option, yard waste will have to be separated in order to comply with Section 324.11506(7) of Part 115, Solid Waste Management, of the Michigan Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act, 1994 PA 451, as amended (Act 451) which has been in effect since March 1995. Landfill operators will not accept yard waste or plastic beverage containers mixed with trash and risk fines resulting from non-compliance. Municipal solid waste collected in the City must be separated from yard waste, and a yard waste provision will be stipulated in any landfill agreement.

The Budget Department reported that the $80 million-plus debt service for GDRRA would be paid in full in the year 2009. This means that the City has a small, 18-month window to develop an environmentally-sound, solid waste collection and disposal plan.

It is for these reasons that I am recommending that the City Council and Mayor appoint a Blue Ribbon Committee to research, study, and develop a solid waste management plan for the City of Detroit by the end of FY 2006-2007. Over a period of 12 months, this committee could produce a workable plan, one year before being implemented, so that a structure to receive viable alternative plans for a comprehensive solid waste management program can be solicited; a full-blown education program can be developed; and a close estimate on the cost of these services can be determined. An emphasis on an education program would help to ensure that residents would be completely prepared for a newer, more sustainable solid waste management program.

Solid waste management programs vary throughout the state and the country.

The Blue Ribbon Committee can look for best practices and determine what works for the City of Detroit:

- Some communities have single haulers.
- Some communities have subscription service.
- Some communities collect waste using a volume-based system.
- Some communities offer curbside recycling, and some don't.
- Some communities ban plastic bags for yard waste collection.
- Some communities do direct billing.
- Some communities add collection fees to water bills.
- Some communities own and operate landfills; Detroit does not.

Lack of transportation is an issue.

The City operates six drop-off sites for bulk items. These sites are open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. during the winter and from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. in the non-winter months. Accessibility is not an issue, but getting there is a problem.

Residents who do not have transportation do not have the means to get to the drop-off sites. Even residents who do have transportation are not willing to pack unwanted bulk items into their vehicles. For senior citizens and persons with disabilities, few options for bulk disposal represents an added hardship.

The majority of Detroit residents are law abiding citizens.

Obviously, this is a time of shrinking resources and competing interests. As a result, illegal dumping has taken center stage, and bulk item collection has been placed on the back burner. Bulk pick-up and illegal dumping should not be confused. Households everywhere have a need to dispose of bulk items from time-to-time, and residents want to be able to get rid of junk legally.

Perhaps, the City has been lenient over the years when there were no restrictions placed on the amount of bulk that could be set out. Solid waste management collection plans outside the city typically include the pick up of one bulk item every week without additional charges, excluding white goods. The Blue Ribbon Committee could recommend a bulk collection program with similar restrictions.

Education is critical.

A well-organized community education program is essential. A major part of the committee's responsibility will be to develop a campaign and promote awareness through the use of mailings, Public Service Announcements, Web Broadcasts, etc. In the event that landfilling is the only option, residents must be educated about yard waste and plastic beverage container separation, or any landfill agreement will be jeopardized.

The Blue Ribbon Committee is really Green.

The Green Ribbon Committee for the City of Detroit needs to include a variety of stakeholders. Members should be committed and represent the following:

- Department of Public Works
- Department of Environmental Affairs
- Planning & Development Department
- Finance Department
- City Planning Commission
- Department of Transportation
- Developers
- Community Development Corporations
- Private Sector
- Environmental Groups
- Neighborhood Associations
- Block Clubs
- Labor Organizations
- Industry Experts
- Realtors

One full year of work is recommended because the task is monumental. The committee can be charged with providing input on a Request For Proposal from landfill operators that recognize that the solid waste management needs of the City are more complex than a simple disposal replacement for GDRRA.

The current plan is only temporary.

Budget problems and outdated policies are responsible for the knee-jerk reaction to solid waste collection concerns in the City. As a City, we have an opportunity to develop a collection and disposal plan that will meet the needs of a community now and in the future. Therefore, the recommendation from the Office of the Ombudsman is that the City Council and Mayor act now to adequately address the solid waste management needs of the City of Detroit.

National Vacant Properties Campaign
CREATING OPPORTUNITY FROM ABANDONMENT

WHAT ARE VACANT PROPERTIES?

We define vacant properties as vacant residential, commercial, and industrial buildings and lots that exhibit one or both of the following traits:

- The site poses a threat to public safety (meeting the definition of a public nuisance), or
- The owners or managers neglect the fundamental duties of property ownership (e.g. they fail to pay taxes or utility bills, default on mortgages, or carry liens against the property.)

Vacant properties include abandoned, boarded-up buildings; unused lots that attract trash and debris; vacant or under-performing commercial properties, known as greyfields (such as under-leased shopping malls and strip commercial properties); and neglected industrial properties with environmental contamination, known as brownfields.

The National Vacant Properties Campaign exists to provide everyone—individuals, advocates, government agencies, developers, non-profits, and others—with information resources, tools, and assistance to support their vacant property revitalization efforts.

The Campaign is a project of Smart Growth America (SGA), Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC), and the Metropolitan Institute at Virginia Tech. We are supported by generous grants from the Fannie Mae Foundation, the U.S. EPA, the Ford Foundation, the C.S. Mott Foundation, the Surdna Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

“Behind every vacant property there is a story. The trick is to find that story and address the underlying issues.”

—DIANE SILVA-MARTINEZ,
Head Deputy City Attorney
San Diego, California

Vacant Properties in our Communities

Far from being confined to urban and industrial areas, the abandonment of properties is a national phenomenon. Rapid growth on the fringes of many metropolitan regions has sucked development from urban cores and inner-ring suburbs. Abandonment takes many forms, but no matter how the phenomenon manifests itself, the increasingly profound effects are the same: lower tax revenues, higher municipal costs, and serious environmental and public health consequences. As communities plot their comeback, they must address the scourge of vacant properties.

Fortunately, many cities are now realizing the opportunity that these properties represent to redefine their communities. Cities like Philadelphia, Pa. and Flint, Mich. are joined by others such as San Diego, Calif., Tucson, Ariz., and Louisville, Ky. in taking aggressive action to attack the problem and prevent it from spreading.

More good news is that effective vacant property reclamation efforts are coming from a broad set of stakeholders—from environmental advocates who see property reclamation as a way to offset urban sprawl to housing groups seeking to create affordable homes to those interested in preserving a community's history.

“In Genesee County, we are seeing that a concerted effort by local government to return vacant properties to productive use is attracting needed partners to the effort. Collaboration among government, philanthropic, and community stakeholders is critical to the success of our efforts here.”

—DAN KILDEE
Treasurer
Genesee County, Michigan

The National Vacant Properties Campaign: Sharing Solutions

Many cities and counties have begun innovative efforts to reclaim their vacant and abandoned properties. The Campaign, launched in 2003, maintains its original mission: to capture model practices, share them with other communities, and help inspire creativity and leadership in communities nationwide.

Campaign Goals

The overarching goal of the Campaign is to help communities prevent abandonment, reclaim vacant properties, and once again become vital places to live. We fulfill this mission through four actions:

Developing a national network of vacant property practitioners and experts

We engage a diverse coalition of national and local partners, including experts, academics, elected officials, local practitioners, foundations, and community developers.

Providing tools and research

We collect and disseminate compelling evidence of the economic, environmental, and community benefits of vacant property reclamation, and effective strategies for achieving this goal.

Making the case for reclamation efforts

We help transform ideas into action by developing persuasive messages for spokespersons, and inspiring the public to demand the best for their communities.

Building the capacity of local, regional, and national practitioners and decisionmakers through technical assistance and training

We provide expert assistance to practitioners and policymakers from the public, private, and nonprofit sectors to jump-start and improve their reclamation efforts.

Campaign Activities

The Campaign provides innovative strategies and tools to transform abandoned houses, boarded factories, vandalized stores, and vacant lots into safe, inviting places for people to work, live, and play. Highlights of our accomplishments include:

- ▶ Coordinating teams of national experts and practitioners to help local officials adopt cutting-edge strategies for reclaiming their communities in more than 14 states.
- ▶ Organizing local and statewide forums. Over 150 participants attended the Land Bank Authority forum in Flint, Mich., sponsored by the C.S. Mott and Ford Foundations. Campaign leaders have since met with six cities to develop local authorities. Practitioners from throughout Ohio met at the state's first vacant properties forum, funded by the Ford Foundation. In 2007, the Campaign will host the first national conference on vacant properties.
- ▶ Partnering with the United States Conference of Mayors and the Fannie Mae Foundation to develop a vacant properties task force to provide mayors with in-depth knowledge and experience in vacant property strategies and with the ability to be national spokespersons to educate other municipalities.

For metropolitan areas looking to accommodate growth without consuming the surrounding countryside, vacant properties amount to a large reservoir of land for well-planned development.

The Campaign's work in Cleveland, Ohio

illustrates the positive results that can occur when a community is motivated to act. Within a few hours of the release of the Campaign's assessment report,

Cleveland at the Crossroads, the mayor announced a new "Zero Blight Initiative" to aggressively address the city's vacant property issues.

Seven major city and county agencies and local community development intermediaries created the Vacant Property

Coordinating Council to carry out the report's recommendations. The members of the Council have each adopted the findings of the report, coordinated their efforts to reduce inefficiencies, and identified their collective priorities from the study.

- Producing information resources to guide citizens and decisionmakers in their efforts at revitalization. Reports include Vacant Properties: The True Costs to Communities and Land Bank Authorities: A Guide for the Creation and Operation of Local Land Banks.

- Building an internet portal, supported by the U.S. EPA, which compiles the most relevant information for anyone interested in issues related to vacant properties.

- Developing a museum exhibition on vacant properties with the National Trust for Historic Preservation and funding from the National Endowment for the Arts to showcase how effective vacant property reclamation can reconnect neighborhoods back into the life of a city.

- Contributing to conferences and making more than 50 presentations before national groups, such as the American Planning Association, Local Government Commission, ICMA, National League of Cities, and National Trust for Historic Preservation.

"I don't believe there is a more competent team anywhere in the country for tackling issues—and crafting appropriate solutions—related to vacant and neglected property in urban cities."

—FRANK FORD
 Neighborhood Progress, Inc.
 Cleveland, Ohio

Technical Assistance

To ensure that municipalities don't struggle alone in solving the problems associated with vacant and abandoned properties, we engage our partners in a range of training and technical assistance services. In the past two years, the Campaign has convened workshops and conducted in-depth policy assessments throughout the country, from Las Vegas, Nev. to New Orleans, La., from Waterloo, Iowa to Cleveland and Dayton, Ohio. The Surdna Foundation is funding work in seven additional cities in 2005 and 2006.

The Campaign offers the following services to address the needs of jurisdictions across the country:

- Systems Assessments: The Campaign organizes small teams of experts to conduct thorough assessments of current vacant property policies, practices, inventory, and goals to identify the primary local challenges and appropriate strategies for addressing them.
- Roundtables: Roundtables are one- or two-day facilitated workshops led by a team of national experts and experienced practitioners, to educate local leaders and practitioners about effective prevention, acquisition, and disposition models, and identify appropriate revitalization strategies and tools.
- Specific Strategies Implementations: Cities can work with one or two members of a team to develop specific implementation strategies, such as reforming foreclosure procedures and legislation, creating land bank authorities, drafting receivership legislation, and designing and implementing early warning and inventory systems.

- Leadership Consultations: We facilitate visits by public officials from other cities implementing effective local programs or policies to those seeking to improve their revitalization efforts, with a focus on peer-to-peer information exchange.
- Trainings: The Campaign provides periodic training opportunities through distance learning venues, including web casts, "cyber brown bags," and conference calls to educate practitioners and policymakers on topics relevant to vacant properties.

Expertise

Each team of experts is assembled to best meet the needs of your community. The teams, led by LISC and the Metropolitan Institute at Virginia Tech, often include staff from Smart Growth America and the Smart Growth Leadership Institute, members of the Campaign's Advisory Committee, and previous assessment hosts.

The National Vacant Properties Campaign is a project of Smart Growth America (SGA), Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC), and the Metropolitan Institute at Virginia Tech. The Campaign is supported by generous grants from the Fannie Mae Foundation, the U.S. EPA, the Ford Foundation, the C.S. Mott Foundation, the Surdna Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Complaints

The increase in complaints received by the Office of the Ombudsman has increased dramatically since the last report presented to City Council on April 25, 2006. At that time, there were 950 complaints received in five months. One year later, the volume of complaints has increased more than 100 percent.

The Departments of Water & Sewerage, Police, and Public Works generated the most complaints in FY 2005-06. In this current fiscal year, the Department of Environmental Affairs dominates the overall number of complaints representing 21 percent of the total.

The Office of the Ombudsman has worked diligently with individuals, community groups, neighborhood associations, block clubs, and various organizations to address problems. Our community outreach efforts have successfully increased our visibility in the community and attributed to the increase in complaints received.

“Call Us First!” continues to be our signature outreach effort. Six meetings were held throughout the city in February, giving us the opportunity to extend direct services to residents, property owners, and businesses. In addition the Office of the Ombudsman, numerous organizations and social services agencies participated.

The City Charter gives the Ombudsman jurisdiction with city departments and agencies, but there is always the need to make referrals when residents call about issues that fall outside the purview of the office. “Call Us First!” allows us to develop and strengthen relationships with referral agencies so that we can be helpful when our Office is contacted.
